FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF HUNS' CAPITULATION MADE IN PARIS THIS AFTERNOON

Day and Hour of Final Act in the Negotiations Not Set but Tuesday or Wednesday Considered as the Probable Time;
Teutons Still Claim "Peace by Violence."

REMAINDER OF GERMAN SHIPS, IN HOME WATERS, SUNK BY THEIR CREWS

By Associated Press.

PARIS, June 23.—The German government at Weimar has formally communicated its willingness to sign the peace terms, unconditionally, it was announced by the French foreign office this afternoon.

The day and hour for the formal signing of the treaty is uncertain.
The signing possibly may take place Tuesday, but more likely Wednesday.

The Italian delegates at present in Paris have been authorized to sign the treaty on behalf of Italy. This announcement removes one question which it was feared might delay the signing.

The German note of acceptance, it is said, is couched in such language that it maintained the German position that the peace conditions are "a peace of violence."

Extension of Time Refused by Entente.

PARIS, June 23.—Germany today requested an additional 48 hours within which to make known its decision relative to the signing of the peace treaty without the reservation refused by the Entente.

The council of three flatly refused the request.

The request for additional time pleaded that the change in the government and the generally disturbed conditions made it difficult to complete the arrangement. The communication from the Germans was received at 3 o'clock this morning. At 9 o'clock President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau met with Premier Lloyd George at the latter's house for consideration of the note. The character of this communication was not disclosed, however, until some time later in the morning when announcement was made that the German request had been rejected.

Other German Warships Sent to Bottom.

WEIMAR, Sunday, June 22.—The German warships which were not surrendered to the Allies and which have been anchored off Kiel, Wilhelmshaven, and other points have been sunk by German sailors manning them, according to a report received here from a reliable authority.
According to the report there were 12 German war vessels, besides destroyers, which were in German waters, not having been turned over to the Entente under the armistice provision.

HARRY L. CARPENTER BREAKS ARM WHILE CRANKING AUTOMOBILE

In Harry Home for Letter to Read at Church When Mishap Changes
His Plan.

While cranking the Ford car of Feuer R. Weimer in South Pittsburg street yesterday morning preparatory to a hurried spin to his home in South Pittsburg street, Harry L. Carpenter sustained a fracture of the right arm
at the wrist when the machine "kicked."
Both bones of the forearm were snapped short off.

Mr. Carpenter had left at home a letter from Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran bearing on the acquisition by the Methodist Episcopal church of the Ruth property in South Pittsburg street for a new church. It was late and he wanted to hurry back home in time to have the letter read in church.

The accident interfered with his plans.
Just a few minutes previously he had discussed the contents of the letter with the pastor, Rev. G. L. C. Richardson. He telephoned Mr. Richardson of his accident and the pastor explained its contents.

Several years ago Mr. Carpenter had his left arm broken. Later he lost a finger through infection following a mishap at the plant of the Tri-State Candy company, of which he is general manager.

General Assembly has gradually been in continuous session since January

Nearly 300 of the bills passed this session have become laws already,
and there are many measures which Governor Spruiell will act upon in the 30 days allowed him after the General Assembly adjourns. More than 1,000

ZACHARIAH CONNELL STATUE TO BE PRESERVED IN MUSEUM BY REVOLUTION DAUGHTERS

The wooden figure of Zachariah Connell, founder of Connellsville, which formerly stood on the old Fourth ward school building but which since the razing of the building had been consigned to a less conspicuous place, in the rear of Harry Dull's livery stable, will be preserved in a museum to be established by the Daughters of the American Revolu-

Where the museum will be located and when it will be opened have not been made public. A number of relics have been assembled.

It is the intention to have the figure rebuilt, part of an arm having disap-

Attempts will be made to recon- sider the anti-sedition bill and tele- phone merger bills, which were de- ferred in the House last week. The anti-sedition bill, drafted in the attorney general's office, lacked three votes of passing last week, and it is said the administration has been making efforts to round up sufficient votes to send it through.

Among other measures expected to come before the House are those creating a department of conservation, which is backed by the state administration; the teachers' salary bill and the one increasing the salaries of all judges in the state. The conservation and judges' bill are now in the House, while the teachers' bill is in the Senate.

The Senate has less than a dozen of its own bills to pass on to the House and the lower branch has about the same number of its measures to transmit to the upper body.

The Senate's Law and Order committee will give a hearing tonight on the Ramsey House bill establishing any beverage containing more than 24 per cent of alcohol as an intoxicant.

Officers Unable to Get Trace of Fleed Abroad Near Brier Hill.

Mary Kimes, nine years old, of Brier Hill, was assaulted by an unknown man Saturday afternoon while on an errand to her grandmother's home at Royal. The man was an American, according to the girl's description, which its makers possess?

Officer F. K. Wright was notified of the assault, but as the girl was uncertain of the location of the attack, no lead could be given from which the bloodhounds could be started upon the trail of the man. Other than from severe shock the child suffered no injuries.

SEVEN GET 10 DAYS

Young Men, Arrested For Disorderlyness, Now in Lockup.

Seven young men, all charged with disorderly conduct, were given 10 days in the city lockup in default of $10 fine by Acting Mayor, R. W. Hoover this morning. The seven were arrested in North Water street about 5:20 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Retzel. In order to handle all seven he marched them to the police station at the point of his revolver.

The police understood that the gang had intended going on through the city until it was learned a carnival would be here next week, when they changed their minds and determined to stay, so Mr. Hoover made them guests of the city.

HELPS US TO GROW AND PROSPER

The banquet the Tri-State Candy company tendered its employees, stockholders and officers Friday night, was more than an informal gathering of the persons associated as managers and workers of this enterprise. For those who participated in it the occasion was one of decided pleasure and profit. To the industrial and business community of which Conneltsville is the center the event was significant of several things of importance.

It was evidence of the recognition, which is becoming more general in industrial and business establishments, of a growing desire upon the part of both employers and employees to come into closer relationship and understanding concerning the matters and things in which both have an interest. Everywhere this spirit is becoming more manifest in the efforts that are being made in behalf of developing a mutual appreciation of the responsibilities and duties of those who direct and of those who perform the labor in various enterprises. Broad minded employers are becoming more and more to know the benefit and value that is derived from cooperation between the managing and producing factors as a means of stimulating endeavor and as a reward for faithful and efficient service. At the same time the employees are learning that advancing the interests of their employers is but another, and better, way of advancing their own.

Every get-together meeting of the people engaged in an enterprise becomes,
therefore, a hopeful sign of a more cordial relationship and better understanding of aims and purposes.

That the plans of the Tri-State company contemplate enlargement of such character as will give Conneltsville a new importance as a manufacturing center in this line is encouraging while it is also proof of the faith
home undertakings have in the future of our city. Coming close upon the improvements that are being made at the Sligo mills, which also had a get-together meeting of it, own some months ago, the whole community has very good reason to view the future with every assurance that we are to continue to grow and prosper. Every evidence of cooperation between employers and employees and between the community and its industries and business projects, will go a help to much growth and prosperity.

Will it be very much of a surprise
if the Germans put it over on the Allies by having the new "dummy" government sign the peace treaty, then kick it out of office and replace the old gang which will assume no responsibility for the acts of the deposed government? This would be the true
German form.

Dawson has held the center of the stage so frequently, and always to her credit, that furnishing a movie star or two will be but the natural and expected order of things.

The first job of police work by the League of Nations—acting as custodian of the surrendered German fleet—was what was a bungler? It was a crime itself.

Has not the government had the opportunity of alien agitators under consideration long? Should it have the action begin without more delay?

Of all the bone head tricks pulled
during the war leaving the surrendered
German navy in care of Germans alone was the worst.

This is Der Tag that precedes Die
Nacht for Germany.

If the English Admiralty wanted to get rid of the surrendered German ships the way in which it permitted the disposal to be made reflects little credit on the "Ruler of the Seas."

The real reason—reason—for Bill
Hohenzollern begins today.

The front finger imposed upon the second will be the sign of the Cross in Germany today, and per and ink in hand will be the sign of Resignation.
The Sign of Resignation will be very skillfully concealed.

Methuselah today.

The Huns are defiant and unrepentant to the very end.

Britannia may rule the waves but it takes German sailors on board of surrendered vessels to cool some and make other Britons rave.

Will incidents like this at Seap
Flow be regarded as rallying Germany for immediate admission into the League of Nations?

Antomobile Overturns.

ous injury when their car turned

Yankee Gas Too
Much for the Huns

By Col. J. B. Kemper, U. S. A.

On November 11 last the thing the Germans started at Ypres in April, 1915, the use of poison gas, was beginning to react with a vengeance.

They first used chlorine, which was released from several thousand steel jars when the wind was favorable and drifted over our lines in the form of a yellow cloud. Chlorine didn't have a very long vogue, however, it wasn't bad enough and besides it was so plainly seen. They then developed phosgene, a colorless gas, but even that didn't work very well in clouds,
so they started loading it in shells and shooting it over. At first, the shell had just enough explosive in it to crack it and let the gas rush out, but everyone soon got wise to the faint "pop" made by an exploding gas shell. They then filled the shell about half full of gas and the other half was high explosive. Then was when the trouble began. You couldn't tell a gas shell from any other until you breathed in the gas, and then it was frequently too late to make any difference.

The final German development was mustard gas. It is a heavy liquid which does not vaporize until the sun gets on it, but in woods, underbrush and in cloudy weather, it may stay on the ground, on the leaves and bark of trees and bushes for weeks. Any one touching these infested places
will be badly burned.

Many and many a man has sat down in a shell hole and spent the next few weeks on his face in bed while the mustard gas burns healed up. Others have knelt to shoot or perhaps to dress a man's wounds, and have had their flesh burned off their knees.
During the wild strawberry and raspberry seasons a number of men died from eating berries which had been saturated with mustard gas.

But don't worry! We never let the Boche put anything over on us for long. When the armistice was signed Germany was producing 210 tons of mustard gas every week, but France was producing 385 tons, and England 455 tons. Uncle Sam can't let anybody else beat him, so he was producing 840 tons per week or four times the German production. Down near Baltimore was a small plant that was loading 250,000 shells with gas every day; mustard, phosgene, tear gas, sneezing gas and some with that American mystery, Lewisite.
I said to be seventy-two times more powerful than mustard. And we were only getting started in the production of gas.

LIFE'S CONTRIBUTION PLATE.

Life passed the contribution plate
to all his worshippers, and I Wondered and watched as it went by.

Some shifted in their pews and turned Away, affecting not to see
Life asking for its honest fee.
Some stared the gold which they had earned.

A widow dressed in mourning trim,
Placed on the plate her only son,
That peace and freedom should be won
And life was fair because of him.

Another gave his talents rare;
Workmen gave back their finest toil;
Some gave a richer patch of soil.
Some smiles of joy for life to wear.

And of the rich and poor and brave
The weak, the craven and the strong,
All noticed as life passed along
That they were happiest who gave

God grant that while on earth I live
And take from life from day to day
All that I can, that I should turn away
And spare the proffered chance to give.

SALES

Last week we were advertising Inventory
Sales. An Inventory Sale means an Economy
Sale, and an Economy Sale means a general closing out of odds and ends, lines which have not been moving out as expected, lines which we are excessively heavy on. Economy sales further mean a reduction, so prepare to visit our stores and take advantage of our economy sales. You will find in women's, misses', and children's wear, distinctive styles and you will find prices that we defy any competition to match. There are some odds and ends in women's misses', and children's dresses, shirt waists, skirts, underwear, hosiery, and other furnishings that are being closed out at reduced prices, although they are among the choicest values in our stores. There are lines which we are overloaded on in staple and fancy dry goods; ribbons of choice colors and popular widths; there are handkerchiefs, undergarments,
and other lines that we take this cut-price method to move out. There are some very choice goods in women's, misses' and children's wear that are not moving as expected and we take this cut-Price method also of moving them out. Remember that they are not old goods, not shopworn stuff that you see in clearance sales around town stores; high class merchandise at reduced prices
—that's why we call it an Economy Sale. During the balance of this month these bargains will be offered.

JOHN H. CHEEKS IN DECIDED NEED OF NERV-WORTH

This Grateful Colored Man Tells How NERV-WORTH Filled the Bill.

And he also tells about Mr. Cheeks' serious condition and how quickly NERV-WORTH rescued her. These are his remarkable words:

"For several years I have lacked the nerve force to digest my food. Many things I could not eat, and most that I did soured in my stomach, and I would vomit and my heart action frightened me. Could not sleep and get rest and was going down grade fast. No strength or vigor.

"I tried many so-called remedies but got no relief. I purchased a bottle of NERV-WORTH and took it as directed and it gave me relief right from the start, and now after using two bottles all the ailments named have left. I can eat anything I want and digest it. No more nervousness or sleeplessness, no heart trouble and an feeling fine and vigorous.

"My wife was also very nervous. Pains in her back and side. Very severe headaches. Stomach and digestion in bad condition. Tossed about the bed all night. Could not sleep. She has used two bottles of NERV-WORTH and is now as well as she ever was. Eats well and sleeps all night through. No aches or pains in side and back and the severe headaches no longer occur. She had the asthma very bad but that has disappeared. We both recommend NERV-WORTH and are thankful we were fortunate enough to get it.

LONGEVITY COMMON IN BRITISH FAMILIES

Often Six to Eight Members Live Above the Average of 85 Years.

The remarkable case of the north country family of Calvert of which eight brothers and sisters have reached an average of eighty-five years, has had many parallels in recent years in England.

The late Lady, Mabella Knox was one of nine brothers and sisters whose aggregate ages totaled 769 years. Five of them survived to ninety-nine, ninety-eight, ninety-three, ninety-three and eighty-nine years, respectively.

Of another family all members of the Society of Friends, we read not long ago that three were still living at the ages of one hundred and one, ninety-one and eighty-seven, while five, who were dead, had counted 418 years among them, an average of 83 years. If the members of this family had lived consecutively instead of together the first born would have lived as long ago as the year 1220.

When Henry Wye, sexton at St. Mary's church, Leicester, died not long ago, at eighty-seven, it was said that two of his brothers had preceded him at the ages of eighty-seven and eighty-five, respectively, while he had two surviving brothers of ninety-seven and ninety-three and two sisters of eighty-three and eighty.

Joshua Jackson of Blackburn, who survived to see his eighty-seventh birthday, was one of eight brothers and sisters, not one of whom failed to pass the eightieth milestone. And quite recently there were living at Milverton, West Somerset, five brothers and sisters, the eldest of whom, Mrs. Shattocks, was ninety-two, and the youngest, James King, just ten years younger.

FORMER SPEAKER AND HIS SOLDIER SON

Lieut. Col. Bennett Clark and "dad" were constantly together until war was declared, when the son entered the service. He was parliamentarian of the house when he went to war.

NO JEWELS AT OPERA

London Women Use Flowers and Leaves for Adornment.

A characteristic of the London opera season is the almost entire absence of what may be termed "dress jewels," usually worn by the women. On the opening night, the queen of Roumania wore an imposing diamond coronet, but she is a queen. Other women, who before the war would have glittered with diamonds at Covent Garden, are going to Drury Lane with wreaths of flowers or leaves in their hair, and only a string or two of pearls to remind the world they still have the jewel cases.

The dearth of jewels, however, does not prevent a dazzling spectacle, so many of the dresses are composed of gleaming gold or silver tissues of glittering brocades, of sequins and diamonds and metallic fringes. The less there is of them the more costly they are as a rule. Feather fans, high-priced ones, are immensely popular again.

Women in British Industries.

The vast extent to which British women replaced men in industry and commerce during the war is disclosed in a white paper just issued. It is estimated that the net increase in female workers employed outside their own homes was 1,200,000.

The number of females employed in industrial concerns and government establishments in April, 1918, were: Munitions, 701,000; other government work in industry, 774,000. The number of females employed as permanent work people in agriculture in July, 1914, was 80,000; in 1918 the number was 118,000.

The play, adapted from the story by Ben Ames Williams, tells of a young millionaire who loses his vast fortune through the dishonesty of an unscrupulous trustee. A mysterious letter comes to him offering the sum of $250,000 for month of his time, but it does not disclose what he is expected to do in return. In great need of the money he accepts, although it is much against his better judgment. A limousine is sent for him and he is taken to a mysterious house where an amazing and terrifying plan is proposed to him. What this is and its surprising outcome will be shown in the gripping play. A Mother Goose party, which shows society folks at play, is a tremendous spectacle in which 200 persons take part. Naomi Childers, well-known to Metro audiences, will be seen as the leading woman. She is noted for her rare beauty and exceptional talents. Other members of the cast are William V. Mong, Mrs. Louis Frank, Harry Carter and others. A selected comedy is also being shown. TRIS SPEAKER BIDS FOR BIGGEST YEAR

Is Hitting Ball Hard and Showing Unusual Amount of Pep.

Playing Shorter Center Field Than Year Ago, Racing Back for Occasional Ones That Go Deep—Strong for Aviation.

Tris Speaker will be more of a star this year than he was a year ago. That is indicated by the form shown by the Indian captain to date. He is hitting the ball harder than a year ago and, if such a thing is possible, is displaying more pep. But that is not all. He is playing a shorter center field than a year ago.

Tris Speaker.

deeper center than usual, and it was said it was because he was slowing up.

Speaker says that when the season is over he will complete the naval aviation course he started last fall. "I am sorry I quit," Spoke said. "I want to be a full-fledged naval aviator, and I understand those of us who did not complete our course will be given a chance to do so next fall." And that is not all Spoke intends to do in the aviation game. The first chance he gets Spoke wants to arrange for a flight with Glenn Martin from Cleveland to some town where Cleveland is to play the next day, like Detroit, Chicago or Washington.

CURB DOBBS AND ELBERFELD

Managers Must Not Appear on Field in Uniform Unless Classed as Active Players.

A ruling has been sent out by President Martin of the Southern league that hereafter managers of teams must not appear in uniform on the field unless they class themselves as active players included inside the player limit. The ruling will bar John Dobbs of the New Orleans team from the lines and also Kid Elberfeld of the Little Rock team unless they include themselves as players on their respective clubs.

Manager Lee Fohl of the Cleveland Indians is enthusiastic over Harry Lunde, who has, he says, a pair of hands that always seem to be where the ball is.

The Chicago fans are said to have been riding Leslie Mann pretty hard. Just why is not clear, unless it was that his holding out tactics were advertised too much.

RAILWAY RATES TO BE ADVANCED

Public Treasury Will Be Relieved of Burden of Meeting Deficits in Earnings.

EDITORS' POLL IN CONGRESS.

Heavy Vote for Return of Roads Arouses Interest at the National Capital.

Washington.—The national poll on the railroad question by 6,000 newspaper editors throughout the country has aroused great interest at the national capital. With 83 per cent. of the editors giving it as their impartial opinion that the public favors an early return of the railroads to their owners and only 11 per cent. favoring Government ownership or operation, the members of Congress of both political parties propose to provide speedy legislation to make it possible to restore the roads to private management before the end of the year.

In Congress there is a general agreement that the following steps will have to be taken before the roads are returned to their owners:

1. An advance in rates to meet the greatly increased cost of labor and materials in order that the Public Treasury may be relieved of the burden of meeting monthly deficits and the roads made self-supporting. The Director General of Railroads states that the increase in rates thus far is about 25 per cent. as compared with an increase in operating costs of from 50 to 80 per cent.

2. Greater nationalization of public control of transportation—a single public control in the Federal Government in place of 40 masters in the different States, with conflicting laws and regulations.

3. Legalization of consolidations and common use of lines and facilities whenever in the public interest.

4. Assurance through an act of Congress that in the future the Government will approve of rates for freight and passengers that will not only be fair to the public, but fall to the roads, and that will yield a sufficient income on capital to attract the $750,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new capital needed every year for the expansion of railroad facilities.

How the States voted in the national poll of editors on the question of the return of the railroads to private management is shown by the following chart. That the railroad question is a non-partisan issue is plain from a study of the table:

BIRD APARTMENTS RENT FREE

Orchardists Seek to Encourage the Woodpecker to Settle in Their Midst, as It Were.

It may sound like a joke to speak of the manufacture of woodpecker nests, but there is actually a factory in Maine that takes many orders for such nests.

The birdhouses are constructed of pine blocks 15 inches long and from five to six inches in diameter. The back of the block is squared to permit of the perfect adjustment being properly attached to the tree or placed where the house is to be located. A canopy or top piece to keep out the weather being made like a roof. A perfect nest is drilled by a reamer. Within three inches of the bottom a conical indentation is made to the bird entrance, as the toes of the woodpecker are in pairs, two before and two behind, with sharp, strong claws, the whole structure of the foot making it adaptable for climbing.

The houses are sold to orchard owners, as the claim is made by the ornithologists that the woodpecker's feed consists chiefly of insects and their larvae, which the birds get by digging into the bark and wood of trees. The woodpecker's tongue is an important instrument in obtaining its feed, as it can be extended far beyond the bill, its tip being horny and furnished with a barbed filament.

"I understand," began Mr. Meekton, "that we are going to—"
"Don't say that," interrupted his wife. "Say that you believe that you opine, if you choose. But affairs are just now in such a state of complexity that nobody with your limited facilities for observation and deduction is warranted in asserting that he understands anything."

BEING THE AUTHENTIC NARRATIVE OF A TREASURE DISCOVERED IN THE BAHAMA ISLANDS IN THE YEAR 1903—NOW FIRST GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC.

Richard Le Gallienne

"Behold by my hand," said my magnificent friend, with the usual pos-

"Behold My Bodyguard!"

sessive wave of his hand, "my Swissers, my Jankissers, to my."

The negroes stopped working, touched their great straw hats, and flashed their splendid teeth in a delighted smile. Evidently they were used to their master's ways of talking, and were devoted to him.

"This chap here is Erebus," said my host, and the appropriateness of the name was apparent, for he was certainly the blackest negro I had ever seen, as superbly black as some women are superbly white.

"And this is Samson. Let's have a look at your muscles, Samson—there's a good boy!"

And, with glins of pleasure, Samson proudly stripped off his thin calico jacket and exposed a torso of terrifying power, but beautiful in its play of muscles as that of a god.

Leaving Samson and Erebus to continue their savage play with their machetes, we walked on through the palms, which here gave a particularly jungle-like appearance to the scene from the fact of their being bowed upward in great curves. One involuntarily looked for a man-eating tiger at any moment, standing striped and splendid in one of the openings.

Then suddenly to the right, there came a flash of level green suggesting lawns and the outlines of a house, partly covered with brilliant purple flowers—a marvelous splash of color.

"Roughly built! Bugalivillea spectabilis—of course, you know it. Was there ever such a purple? Not Solomon in all his glory, et cetera. And here we are at the house of King Alcinoos—a humble version of it in deed."

It was a large rambling stucco house somewhat decayed looking, and evidently built on the ruins of an older building. We came upon it at a broad Italian looking loggia supported by stone pillars bowed in with vines—very cool and pleasant with mossy slabs for its floor, here and there tropical ferns set out in tubs some wicker chairs standing about, and a table at one side on which two little harlequin negro girls were busy setting out yellow fruit, and other appurtenances of luncheon, on a dazzling white cloth.

"Has your mistress returned yet, my children?" asked the master.

"No, sir," said the older girl, with a giggle, twisting and grimacing with embarrassment.

"My daughter," explained my host, "has gone to the town on an errand. She will be back at any moment. Meanwhile, I shall introduce you to a cooling drink of my own manufacture, with a basis of that coconut milk which I need not ask you whether you appreciate, recalling the pleasant circumstance of our first acquaintance."

Motioning me to a seat, and pushing toward me a box of cigarettes he went indoors leaving me to take in the stretch of beautiful garden in front of me, the trees of which seemed literally to be hung with gold—for they were mately of orange and grapefruit ranged round a spacious beautifully kept lawn with the regularity of symmetrical decoration. In the middle of the lawn, a little rocky fountain threw up a jet of silver, falling with a tinkling murmur into a broad circular basin from which emerged the broad leaves and splendid pink blossoms of an Egyptian lotus. Certainly it was no far-fetched allusion of the garden of Alcinoos; particularly connected as it was in my mind with the white beach of a desert isle, and that marble statue in the moonlight.

As I sat dreaming, bathed in the golden-green light of the orange trees and lulled by the tinkling of the fountain, my host returned with our drink, his learned dissertation on which I will spare the reader, highly interesting and characterized in its own way.

Seeing that it was a drink, whatever its ingredients—and there was certainly a powerful

"stick" in it—that seemed to have been drawn from some cool grotto of the virgin earth, so thrillingly cold and invigorating it was.

While we were slowly sipping it, and smoking our cigarettes, in an unwonted pause of my friend's fanciful verbosity, I almost jumped in my chair at the sound of a voice indoors. It was instantly followed by a light and rapid tread, and the sound of a woman's dress. Then a tall, beautiful young woman emerged on the loggia.

"Ah! there you are!" cried my host, as we both rose; and then turning to me, "this is my daughter—Calypso. Her real name I assure you—none of my nonsense—doesn't she look it? Allow me my dear, to introduce—Mr. Ulysses"—for we had not yet exchanged each other's names.

I am a wretched actor, and I am bound to say that she proved herself no better. For she gave a decided start as she turned those glowing eyes on me, and the lovely olive of her cheeks glowed as with submerged rose color. Our embarrassment did not escape the father.

"Why, you know each other already!" he exclaimed, with natural surprise.

"Not exactly"—I was grateful for the sudden nerve with which I was able to hasten to the relief of her lovely distress—"but possibly Miss Calypso recalls as naturally as I do, our momentary meeting in Sweeney's store, one evening I had no expectation of course, that we should meet again under such pleasant circumstances as this."

She gave me a grateful look as she took my hand, and with it—or was it only my eager imagination—she little pressure, again as of gratitude.

I had tried to get into my voice my assurance that, of course, I remembered no other more recent meeting, though naturally, as she had given that little start in the doorway there had flashed on me again the picture of her standing, moonlit, in another resounding doorway, and of the wild start she had given then as the golden pieces streamed from her lovely surprised mouth, and her lifted hands. And her eyes—I could have sworn—were the living eyes of Jack Harkaway! Had she a brother, I wondered. Yet my mind was too dazzled and confused with her nearness to pursue the speculation.

As we sat down to luncheon waited upon by the little harlequin black children—waited on, too surprisingly well, despite the contortions of their primitive embarrassment—my host once more resumed his character of the classic king welcoming the storm-tossed stranger to his board.

"Far wanderer," he said raising his glass to me, "eat of what our board affords, welcome without question of name and nation. But if, when the food and wine have done their genial office, and the weariness of your journey has fallen from you, you should feel stirred to tell us somewhat of yourself and your wanderings, what manner of men call you kinsman, in what fair land is your home and the place of your loved ones, be sure that we shall count the tale good hearing, and for our part make exchange in like fashion of ourselves and the passage of our days in this lonely isle."

We all laughed as he ended—himself with a whiff of laughter. For odd as such discourse may sound in the reading, it was uttered so whimsically, and in so spirited and humorous a style that I assure you it was very captivating.

"You should have been an actor, my lord Alcinoos," I said, laughing. It seemed already curiously at home seated there at that table with this fantastic stranger and that being out of fairyland toward whom I dared only turn my eyes now and again by stealth. The strange fellow had such a way with him, and his talk made you feel that he had known you all your life.

"Ah! I have had my dreams I have had my dreams!" he answered, his eyes gazing with a momentary wildness across the orange trees.

Then we talked at random, as friends; strangers talk over luncheon, though we were glad enough that he should do all the talking—wonderful, fantastic, madcap talk, such as a man here and there in ten thousand gifted with perhaps the most attractive of all

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits over-time.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork.

By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest, excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcohol, drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardice, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shrink work and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind, vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery, to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance, to be not only a man but a man new to a superior, you must take seven tablets of Bio-ferin every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one out after each meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before, if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-ferin is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous rundown weak, anemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is sold at all expense. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

man gifts, has at his command — — —

And, every now and again, my eyes, falling on the paradoxical squalor of his clothing, would remind me of the origins of this courtly vagabond; though—need I say it?—my eyes and my heart had other business than with him, throughout that wonderful meal, unfolded as I felt myself once more in that golden cloud of magnetic vitality, which had at first swept over me, as with a breath of perfumed fire, among the salt pork and the tinsware of Sweeney's store.

Luncheon over, Lady Calypso, with a stately inclination of her lovely head, left us to our wine and our cigars.

The time had come for the far-travelled guest to declare himself, and I saw in my host's eyes a courteous invitation to begin. I had been pondering what account to give of myself, and I had decided for various reasons—of which the Lady Calypso was of course, first, but the open-hearted charm of her father a close second—to tell him the whole of my story. Whatever his and her particular secret was, it was evident to me that it was an innocent and honorable one, and, besides, I may have had a notion that before long I was to have a family interest in it. So I began—starting in with a little prelude in the manner of my host, just to enter into the spirit of the game:

"My Lord Alcinoos, your guest, the far wanderer, having partaken of your golden hospitality, is now fain to open his heart to you, and tell you of himself and his race, his home and his loved ones across the wide-dark sea, and such of his adventures as may give pleasure to your ears."

though having no talents in that direction, I was glad enough to abandon my lame attempt at his Homeric style for a plain straightforward narrative of the events of the past three months.

I had not, however proceeded very far, when with a courteous raising of his hand, King Alcinoos suggested a pause.

"If you would not mind," he said, "I would like my daughter to hear two too, for it is of the very stuff of romantic adventure in which she delights. She is a brave girl and, as I often tell her, would have made a very spirited dare-devil boy if she hadn't happened to be born a girl."

This phrase seemed to flash a light upon the questionings that had stirred at the back of my mind since I had first heard that voice in Sweeney's store.

"By the way, dear king," I said, assuming a casual manner, "do you happen to have a son?"

"No," he answered, "Calypso is my only child."

"Very strange!" I said, "we met a whimsical lad in our travels whom I would have sworn was her brother."

"That's odd!" said the "king" impatiently, "but not I have no son," and he seemed to say it with a certain sadness.

Then Calypso came in to join my audience, having meanwhile taken the opportunity of twining a scarlet hibiscus among her luxuriant dark curls. I should certainly have told the story better without her, yet I was glad—how glad!—to have her seated there, an attentive presence in a simple gown white as the sea foam—from which, there was no further doubt in my mind, she had magically sprung.

I gave them the whole story, much as I had told it in John Saunders' snuggery—John P. Tobias Jr., dear old Tom and his sticking fish, his ghosts, sharks, skeletons, and all; and when I had finished, I found that the interest of my story was once more chiefly centered in my pocket-marked friend of "the wonderful works of God."

"I should like to meet your pocket-marked friend," said King Alcinoos, and I have a notion that, with you as a bait, I shall not long be denied the pleasure."

"I am inclined to think that I have seen him already," said Calypso, using her honey golden voice for the base purpose of mentioning him.

"Impossible!" I cried, "he is long since safe in Nassau jail."

"Oh, not lately!" she answered to our interrogative surprise and giving a swift embarrassed look at her father, which I at once connected with the secret of the doublets.

"Seriously, Calypso?" asked her father, with a certain stern affection as thinking of her safety. "On one of your errands to town?"

And then turning to me, he said:

"Sir Ulysses you have spoken well and your speech has been that free, open-hearted speech that was his way alike among the Hyperboreans that dwell in frozen twilight near the northern star and those dwarfed and swarthy intelligences that blacken in the fierce sunlight of that fearful axle we call the equator. Therefore I will make return to you of speech no less frank and true."

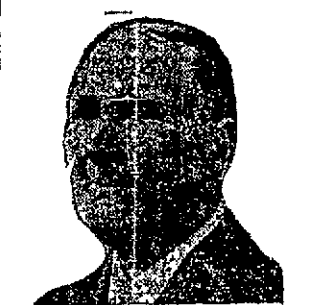

He took a puff at his cigar, and then continued:

"I should not risk this confession but that it is easy to see that you belong to the race of Eternal Children to which you may have realized my daughter and I also belong. This adventure of yours after buried treasure has not seriously been for the doublings and pieces of eight the million dollars and the million and a half dollars as themselves, but for the fun of going after them, calling the unknown seas, coral islands and all that sort of blessed moonshine. Well, Calypso and I are just like that, and I am going to tell you something exciting—we too have our buried treasure. It is nothing like so magnificent in amount as yours, or your Henry P. Tobias—and where it is at this particular moment I know as little as yourself. In fact it is Calypso's secret..."

FAYETTE RECEIVES BONUS OF $25,000 UNDER JONES ACT

Distribution By Highway Department Is Part of $1,142,000 Fund.

WESTMORELAND, $40,966

Payment is Made Possible Through an Appropriation by the Legislature Now in Session and Covers the Amounts Due for Years 1913-14.

The State Highway Department today announced the amounts to be received by the various counties of Pennsylvania from the appropriations by the present legislature covering the cash tax bonus due townships for the years 1913 and 1914. The total amount for distribution is $1,142,000.

Counties in this section of the state will receive the following amounts:

Fayette	$25,000.00
Westmoreland	$40,966.50
Juniata	$22,867.75
Somerset	$21,555.65
Bedford	$17,269.42
Cambria	$16,741.27
Washington	$2,457.82

By Act of July 22, 1913, known as the "Jones Road Act," it is provided that the general supervision of road affairs in each township of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall be vested in three township supervisors. It is further provided that the road tax in townships shall be collected in cash and no taxes shall be payable in labor or worked out. It is also provided that each township shall furnish an annual report to the State Highway Department, sworn to before a notary public, showing all receipts and expenditures during the past year, and also file a signed agreement, setting forth the proposed method of expending funds received from the commonwealth. This, together with a copy of the treasurer's bond, is sufficient to entitle the township to receive its share of the annual bonus, which is intended to cover an annual reimbursement from the state of 50 per cent of the total amount of road tax collected by the township as shown in the sworn statement, but it is provided, however, that no township shall receive in any one year more than $25 per mile of township road in said township.

By Act of June 3, 1915, the provisions of the Act of July 22, 1913, were suspended until all deficiencies incurred prior to the year 1915 be paid by the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. During the present session of the legislature, an appropriation of $1,142,000 was made to pay in full all the deficiencies due the townships and the certification of this bonus to the state treasurer for payment to the townships is now under way. The method provided for making this distribution is for the state highway commissioner to certify to the auditor general the amount due the respective townships. The auditor general then upon approval is required to draw warrant upon the state treasurer for payment and the state treasurer to pay direct to the treasurer of the board of township supervisors. Vouchers are now being prepared and will soon be certified to the auditor general covering the distribution in full of the deficiency appropriation which became available on June 1, 1915.

NEW ONE.

Judge Wood was talking about last night's cases which suddenly took on importance because they present knotty legal questions. "A case of this kind came up before a friend of mine not so very long ago. A young lady sued for breach of promise."

"But how can you sue for breach of promise?" demanded the judge. "You've just admitted that the defendant never promised to marry you."

"That don't make no difference, Judge," declared the lady. "he promised he'd be a brother to me, and he ain't been no such thing."

Encouragement.

He (defectively)—Is this final? Is there no hope for me?

Sport Hats and Others

Because the late summer hat takes its cue from the sport hat, and resembles it more or less, it is sometimes difficult to make up one's mind just which of the last millinery arrivals are to be classed as sport styles. But no one is concerned much about the matter. "Late summer" includes everything the shops show from now until early fall is ushered in, and "sport styles" are worn almost everywhere. The late summer hat is not burdened with much trimming, for it must contrive to look cool. There are exceptions to this rule in hats and trimmings made of the finest fabrics, among the loveliest of dress hats, but generally the late summer hat has a flavor of outdoor life, and is popular with sport styles that serve the same purpose.

In the group of hats shown here a leghorn, faced with white crepe georgette lends out. It is a simple affair so far as trimmings is concerned, for it has a band of ribbon about the crown with flat ornaments set at intervals against it. At the top an organdie hat that will look cool in August weather contents itself with a braided pattern on the top crown and similar motifs on the brim at the front, back and sides. There is a crushed band of organdie about the crown. Other materials are used for late summer hats as printed and embroidered velvies, cretonne and batiste.

Georgette crepe makes the lovely sport hat at the right of the group with its high, soft crown and smooth brim. A band about the crown made of folds of the crepe is as elegant a finish as the most exacting taste can demand.

If you are considering a sport hat give attention to the new and picturesque models called "canopy hats" that are made of cretonne, with belms faced with velvet. They are beautiful and practical and full of color, but untrimmed, except for a band of narrow ribbon, usually of velvet, about the crown.

Capes and Dolmans
1-2 Price!

Capes and Dolmans are the best all-around summer wraps; they seem appropriate most everywhere and will stand more wear than most any other sort of a wrap.

Such materials as Satin, Tricotone, Silverstone and Crystal Cord has been used for the development of many of the newest models.

Many of these styles are especially desirable for early Fall wear. The Capes have been generously cut and hang gracefully and evenly. Some are short sports capes, while others have jacket fronts and are particularly good styles for young women. There are many models that are very becoming to heavy women.

STRIKE IN GOLD

Dreams of an Ancient River Bed With Free Ore Came True.

The dreams of an ancient river bed fabulously rich in free gold which had been an obsession of prospectors for half a century have come true.

For more than 60 years miners have believed that if the original channel or old bed could be located where once flowed the Rogue River in its gravel could be found free gold of untold quantities.

And so it happened that G. M. Esterly, owner of the old Waldo mine southwest of Grant's Pass, Ore., the other day made the greatest strike ever made in this section when he turned gravel for the first time. Esterly's holdings consist of 4,200 acres and it is believed that almost every foot of them lie over the old river bed and that nearly all of it is rich in pay dirt.

FINALLY REACHED HIS POINT

Lawyer's Flowery Eloquence Turned Out to Be Prelude to Very Simple Request.

Norman Haggood, the new minister to Denmark, was talking about a "whitewashing" case.

"The case reminds me," he said, "of Pietro Liberti, a scion of sunny Italy, who was on trial for a murderous assault. His lawyer defended him in this manner:

"Your honor," the lawyer began "my client, Signor Pietro Liberti, comes from Italia la Bella, land of romance, art and immortal literature. He comes, your honor, from the sun-kissed home of the illustrious Michelangelo Buonarroti, of the divine Raphael and the undying Dante Alighieri. He comes from the olive-crowned birthplace of Tasso, Ariosto and the humorous Boccaccio. His home is Italia, prolific mother of art and science, progenitrix of Galvani and Galileo Galilei."

"After the lawyer had gone on in this strain for about an hour the Judge began to get impatient. "What has all this got to do with the case?" he finally asked. "My poor words," said the lawyer, "are but way of preface. My client, from immortal Italia, home of the painter and the sculptor, humbly prays this court to apply to him the very lowest form of pictorial art. He prays, your honor, to be 'white-washed.'"

Sure It Was His Fault.

"Say, what's the matter with you fellows?" snapped the dance manager. "You've played three pieces all evening. What's the big idea?"

"It's your own fault, friend," responded the trap drummer; "you asked for a three-piece orchestra, didn't ya?"

A Soft Answer.

"See here, John!"

"Well!"

"Slither noticed you downtown today and you were looking at every pretty girl on the street."

"There were none in your class, George. I made careful comparisons."
